If any part of any documents listed in Table 1 conflict with this specification, then this specification shall assume priority.

2 - Definitions

The following definitions apply:

- Map Supplier – A person who forms plans and leads the development, troubleshooting, and design changes of a random map script, in order for it to comply with all applicable requirements. The Supplier is the owner and point of contact for a map, but need not be the sole originator of all containing script or script-compiling materials. In the event of collaboration, it is presumed that the Supplier properly credited all co-creators and achieved consensus to apply the team's work in support of this Alchemy AOE Competition.
- Map Organizer – A person who arranges the development of an entire map pack to be used in a competition. The Map Organizer consults as needed with the Competition host to disposition any maps that do not conform to established requirements and determines, in his/her discretion – with input from subject-matter experts – the state of readiness for any map listed herein.
- CSRM – (C)omponent (S)pecification for (R)andom (M)ap: A technical document defining the needs for each map sourced specifically for the competition. Supersedes any general specifications, in the case of conflicting requirements.
- GSRM – (G)eneral (S)pecification for (R)andom (M)ap: A technical document defining the common needs of most or all random maps used in competitions, mitigating repetitive text across component specifications that would otherwise share common features. In the case of a conflict, specific requirements take priority over general.
- PSRM – (P)rocurement (S)pecification for (R)andom (M)ap: A technical document defining the procurement process for a group of maps to be used in a competition, including a list of maps, creators, contest descriptions, timeline for completion, compensation, etc.

3 - Background

Fifteen Ensemble Studios maps were released in August, 2000 as part of the Age of Conquerors expansion to Age of Empires II: The Age of Kings. Since then, the maps have been featured in community events, as well as tournaments, throughout Voobly, HD, and Definitive Editions.

4 - Overview

This document provides definition for custom random maps intended for use in an “Ensemble Studio Reworks-themed” (ESR) Alchemy League Season 7.

5 - Procurement

Where applicable, maps shall be sourced according to the procedure defined by STND-001.

9 - Artistic Evaluation

A general map contest shall be conducted among maps that survived Competitiveness screening, to determine how prize winnings should be distributed.

9.A - Contest Method

An online form shall be published –accompanied by a slideshow containing images for each map – polling anyone who wishes to participate. The nature of the questions shall ask evaluators to compare the map in question to all other AOE2 maps they have seen, and indicate the percentage that it exceeds them in, for the given category. For example, if a map is more creative than 80% of AOE2 maps – in the eyes of its evaluator – then it receives a score of 0.8 for that category (with higher numbers being desirable). The contest shall be configured such that participants must evaluate all maps in order for their response to be recorded.

9.B - Scoring Method

Each score assigned per §9.A shall be multiplied by the weight of that category (see section §9.C before adding all such products together to determine an overall score given by that evaluator for that map. Then all such scores are added together, to give a total score map score across all evaluators.

9.C - Category Weights

The table below shows categories relevant to artistic evaluation and their relative weights:

Category	Relative Weight
Thematic Appropriateness	2
Originality	2
Fun Factor	1.5
Visual Appeal/Readability	1

Table 9.C: Artistic Voting Weights

The following additional notes are added for a few of these categories, specific to the theme of Ensemble Studios Reworks:

- Thematic Appropriateness – Instead of a comparison against how well the map meets its own nomenclature or tournament theme, this category addresses how well the map captures the look and feel of the original ES map of the same name, while still implementing improvements.
- Originality – Instead of a comparison for how well the map diverges from previously explored concepts, this category addresses the creativity in its improvements or upgrades, while not at the expense of its look and feel as a classic AOE2 map.

10 - Rewards

10.A - Tournament Featuring

The total scores of maps from §9.B shall determine the order in which the maps are featured as “Map of the Round”, with highest score going first. The only exception is that ESR-05 shall go last, regardless of score.

10.B - Base Earnings

The base compensation for all maps featured in the competition shall consist of 68% of the total map contest prize pool equally distributed across all maps except ESR-05.

10.C - Placement Earnings

The table below gives a breakdown of additional prizes depending on placement from §9.B. Note that the total adds to 100% after including base earnings allocation of §10.B.

Placement	Added Fraction of Total Map Contest Prizes
1st	13
2nd	9
3rd	6
4th	4
